Jim:

We will be meeting next Wednesday, at 10.00am, to catch up. As background, I thought you would be interested in this paper prepared by my colleagues for an ALCO discussion. It is a background note which draws on all of the recent work to summarize the "risk agenda" in Finance. You will note that the important areas for future attention relate to lending rate leads and lags and the actual deployment of equity.

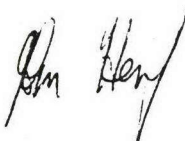

With everything on your desk, you don't need to read this paper before we meet – and we are certainly not looking for feedback, at this stage.

I have other issues on which to brief you and, of course, I am most anxious to hear of anything that is on your mind.
