Review Team of the Targeted Review of the IFC/MIGA Independent Accountability Mechanism (CAO) Policy

Dr Renosi Mokate has a 40-year career in academia, public policy, and corporate governance within both public and private sectors. She is currently the Chairperson and Executive Director of Concentric Alliance (CA), a conflict resolution and development advisory firm she co-founded in 2013, which focuses on fostering collaboration and trust between clients and their stakeholders. Dr Mokate has led initiatives in multi-stakeholder engagement and conflict resolution, including serving as the Project Lead for the Evaluation of the Compliance Advisory Ombudsman's Dispute Resolution Processes in 2022.

In the public sector, Dr Mokate is the Deputy Chairperson of the Presidential Economic Advisory Council, guiding strategies for inclusive and sustainable growth. Previously, she served as the Deputy Governor of the South African Reserve Bank, participating in the Monetary Policy Committee and chairing its subsidiaries. Additionally, she was the Chairperson and CEO of the Financial and Fiscal Commission, which advises on intergovernmental fiscal relations. She worked as a Senior Policy Analyst at the Development Bank of Southern Africa, including a secondment role as CEO of the Independent Electoral Commission during South Africa's democratic transition.

Academically, she has held various positions, including Executive Dean at the Graduate School of Business Leadership at the University of South Africa and Director of the Reconstruction and Development Office at the University of Pretoria. Dr Mokate's governance experience includes serving as Chairperson of the Government Employees Pension Fund and as a member of the Principles for Responsible Investment Association, reflecting her commitment to socio-economic development and sustainable finance.

Roland Michelitsch is an independent evaluator with over 30 years of experience working with various multilateral development banks.

He is now working as an independent consultant with a variety of different development institutions and led, for example, an assessment of IFC for the Multilateral Organization Performance Assessment Network as well as an assessment of follow-up to evaluation recommendations at the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD).

Before that, as Evaluator General, he led the Independent Development Evaluation Department (IDEV) at the African Development Bank (AfDB) Group and was responsible for independently assessing all aspects of the development effectiveness of AfDB's policies, strategies and operations, promoting a culture of evaluation, and contributing to improving self-evaluation and the use of lessons.

Before that, he led evaluations of private and public sector activities at the Inter-American Development Bank (IDB) Group, including corporate, sector, thematic, country and project evaluations and the recommendation tracking system.

At the International Finance Corporation (IFC), Roland managed the investment unit in IFC's Development Impact Department, responsible for measuring and reporting on IFC's development results. He led IFC's Development Outcome Tracking System (DOTS) and helped integrate development results in IFC's strategy, operations, incentives and reporting. He also led the IFC Jobs Study and a Global Partnership to help create more and better jobs.

In IFC's Independent Evaluation Group, he led IFC's project evaluation system and framework and evaluations on various topics. As IFC's Regional Economist for Sub-Saharan Africa he helped develop IFC's regional strategy and its coordination within the World Bank Group.

In the World Bank, he worked on Corporate Governance in Central and Eastern Europe and on the nexus between population, agriculture and the environment in Sub-Saharan Africa.

As research associate in experimental economics, he worked for Nobel-Laureate Vernon Smith in the Economic Science Lab of the University of Arizona.

Roland holds a PhD and MA in Economics from the University of Arizona and an MBA from the University of Graz.