International Symposium

From Recovery to Growth: learning from Hiroshima's experience

~Dialogue between Hiroshima, Ukraine and other Eastern European and Central Asian Countries~

Overview

Cities around the world are grappling with multiple crises such as conflicts, disasters, climate change, and COVID-19. But these crises also present an opportunity to re-invent cities to address longer-term urban development challenges and build stronger, greener, and more equitable cities. In this symposium, city officials from Japan and Eastern Europe will share their experiences and lessons learned from their crisis management and reconstruction efforts and discuss steps toward more sustainable urban development.

The program includes a keynote speech by a government official from Ukraine, a slideshow and music presentation moderated by a representative of Hiroshima, and a panel discussion on how cities can deal with multiple crises and build back better.
