New Year's Reception with German Staff in the German Executive Office at the World Bank

At the invitation of Michael Krake, German Executive Director, numerous German staff members gathered at the German Office for a New Year's reception. Lively discussions were held on a variety of topics, including the future of the World Bank, support for Ukraine, private sector development, and human resources policies. The opportunity to make new and refresh old contacts was extensively used, both between staff members and the German Office, and among staff members themselves.
